C4Diagnostics speeds up its commercial development in 2019

C4Diagnostics announces the execution of key distribution agreements for its C4Legio™ product.

Marseille, March 21st, 2019

C4Diagnostics has successfully reached several key milestones in the beginning of 2019: after its ISO13485 certification in January 2019, C4Diagnostics has secured its first product introduction on the market by entering into exclusive distribution agreements with key stakeholders, including Eurobio Scientific (France), Ventmed (United Kingdom) and BestBion Dx (Germany and Austria).

“The signature of these distribution agreements with key partners is a step forward that is going to speed up our development and the upcoming commercialisation of our C4Legio™ product. It confirms the potential of our young company and the market interest for our approach and our products.”, said Younes Lazrak, C4Diagnostics’ CEO “We have reached important milestones in this beginning of 2019, and plan to accelerate our journey during this year.”

Dave Fisher, Managing Director at Ventmed: “With the steady advance of potentially destructive microorganisms all around us today, the global challenge to detect Legionnaires disease rapidly, and treat these pathogens has never been greater. C4Diagnostics technology from France has joined this crusade with a specific aim to become a world leader in vitro diagnostic and teamed up with Ventmed, a specialist distributor in the UK in Respiratory and Emergency medical care sectors to achieve this. Ventmed is delighted to work with C4Diagnostics, and to provide the focus and experience required to deliver the unrivalled speed, coupled with accuracy that the C4Diagnostics tests offer to help identify these infectious diseases.”

Bernd Stammel, founder and Business Development Manager at Bestbion dx GmbH: “As a highly innovative company, we are delighted to start our cooperation with C4Diagnostics, the products from C4 Diagnostics are a perfect addition to our product range, especially the diagnostics of Legionella”.
